

I See Your Face

By: Jett Belavin

When I dream of where I'd rather be,
A happy place where I am free,
I see no land of trees or sea
I close my eyes, and see your face

When I think of true beauty, but can't find the phrase
When I wish life were a movie filled with wonders every day
When the skies go gray and I've lost my way
I close my eyes, and see your face

When I pine for endless nights of fun
To drink and laugh and dance a ton
I tell myself the night's still young
Then close my eyes, and see your face...

But,
When I sit in silence, I see your face.
And when I brush my teeth, I see your face.
And when I cross the street, I see your face.
And when I feel the breeze, I see your face...

And when I wash my face.
And when I kiss my girlfriend.
And when I toss and turn and cannot sleep—
When my head aches and hands shake-I see your face
I flee with haste in dire need of peace and space
But there's no place I can escape—
I close my eyes and want to cry—
I close my eyes and wish I died,

I close my eyes...
